Groningen, Netherlands – 30 December 2008

www.world-results.net Ltd, a company specializing in international football match data, has this month started to augment its extensive results/fixtures database with player and goal data. Not only will it now collect this information for the majority of football matches played from this date forward, it will also invest a lot of time to collect historical data and thereby fill its archive with player data:

- the players that played the match (first and last names as well as date of birth and nationality),
- the times players were substituted,
- the times players received red cards.

as well as the following goal data:

- the time of the goal,
- the player that scored the goal,
- whether the goal was a penalty or an own goal.

About www.world-results.net Ltd's Football Archive

www.world-results.net Ltd's archive contains around 35000 match records and comprises international football results and fixtures from every past and present footballing country in the world from Afghanistan to Zimbabwe, some 245 countries in all. As well as the new 'player' and 'goal' data, the archive contains the following data:

- date – the day the match was played,
- score – half-time, full-time, extra-time, penalty and awarded,
- tournament information – the name of the tournament and stage/group/zone,
- venue – the country/city/stadium where the match was played,
- status – whether the match is considered to be a full FIFA international match or not,
- comment – any extra information about the match, for instance, whether the match was played using only players from the local league, or whether a club team represented the national team.

The archive also contains tournament structure information for each tournament from the World Cup to the smallest of 'friendly' tournaments such that it is easy to determine where a match fits into a tournament.

The archive is updated 365 days a year and typically several times per day. As such the archive can be sourced for historical data as well as 'live' up-to-date data.
